

Distributors for STROS and Barko

Barko 595MH material handler.

STROS is about modern equipment, special engineering, service response, attention to detail and safety.

STROS construction hoists and industrial elevators

We are dealers in STROS industrial elevators and construction hoists. Industrial elevators are used in spaces that are too small for a conventional elevator and in extreme outdoor environments. They are useful in refineries, coal handling centers and cement plants. STROS construction hoists have single and dual cage racks and pinion construction hoists with capacities of over 3,000kgs, with speeds up to 300FPM.

We know the importance of having critical spare parts available and thus maintain a complete inventory of our equipment for STROS users across the U.S.

Barko

Barko, established over 50 years ago, has become the leader in producing cost-effective, high quality material handlers. Used for forestry, scrap and industrial construction, their products are known for innovation and reliability. Operators are able to get their projects done efficiently and comfortably with cabs featuring climate control, non-slip flooring, an emergency exit and 360-degree visibility.

Barko is continually striving to produce more for less cost. They offer higher productivity and better quality, yet very fuel-efficient, while at the same time performing with genuine low-maintenance OEM parts. Their extra strength pins and bolts, and centralized hydraulic control valves make for a conspicuous extended product life. Barko has the quality our customers need, while appealing to their bottom line needs.
